Leader Paves The Way To Test Water in Public & Private Schools for Lead Contamination Across New York State

Rochester New York, September 7, 2016

Leader Professional Services, Inc. is local-based, nationally recognized environmental expert currently testing water supplies in area schools and across New York State. Leader has already performed water testing at over fifty school districts and BOCES locations across the New York State footprint.

On Tuesday, September 6th, Governor Andrew Cuomo signed into law the Bill that requires schools to test their drinking water for lead contamination. Lead can cause health issues with children. All schools in New York State are required to perform testing by October 31st and report the results to parents, the state Department of Health and local government officials. Schools serving children in pre-kindergarten through grade 5 will be required to submit their water testing samples by Sept 30th.
